

CANDICE MORALES

FOUNDER - CEO BUDGET FOR ME, LLC

CO-AUTHOR
IN SPITE OF IT ALL

Candice Morales is the Co-Author of “In Spite of It All” and Founder/C.E.O of Budget For Me, LLC. She is a graduate of Long Island University in Brooklyn, New York, and holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Finance.

Candice learned at a very young age the importance of financial literacy. She faced many challenges as a young adult forcing her to keep a close eye on every dollar she earned to survive. The life skills she acquired ultimately helped her later on in life and is now passionate about helping other gain control of their finances and make informed financial decisions.

Fast forward to adulthood, Candice fell extremely ill during both of her pregnancies and was forced to stay on bed rest. Not being able to work set her back a great deal. Within 2 years Candice found herself in debt and struggling to make ends meet. Saving was not even an option. It was through this journey that Candice decided to one day help others, who through no intentions of their own found themselves in financial ruins.

Candice is currently a successful small business owner, mother of two, on a mission to educate and inspire others about financial freedom and discuss why your current circumstances does not determine where you go in life but instead redirects it.